Ecoregions of Nebraska and Kansas

The map shows the various ecoregions within Nebraska and Kansas, categorized by their physiographic characteristics, vegetation types, climate, soils, land use, wildlife, and hydrology. Each ecoregion is color-coded and labeled for identification. The map includes a legend that explains the symbols and abbreviations used to represent each ecoregion. The ecoregions are delineated by different patterns and colors, indicating variations in their ecological and geographic features. The map provides a visual representation of the diverse landscapes found within the states, highlighting the complexity and diversity of their natural environments.